Lisa Vrabie focuses her practice on trusts and estates, guiding individuals and families through the estate planning process with clarity and care. She works closely with clients to develop plans that protect loved ones, preserve assets, and reflect their long-term goals.

Lisa is known for her ability to navigate sensitive family dynamics and complex planning decisions. Her approach ensures clients feel informed and comfortable as they make decisions about their future.

Prior to entering the legal profession, Lisa spent fifteen years as a counselor, school administrator, and special education case manager. This experience shaped her ability to understand the challenges families face and the considerations that matter most to parents, children, and caregivers. This perspective enhances her approach to estate planning, particularly as families grow and their needs change over time.

Lisa is committed to building lasting relationships with her clients and helping them move forward with peace of mind, knowing their plans are aligned with their priorities and the people they care most about.
